Senate Reviews Action Of EC Managing Board

The Senate meeting of October 28 opened with a report by the Earlham Hall Board of Managers explaining the various duties of the committees under the Board. The report was given by Frank Short, chairman of the board.

The Activities Committee, headed by Paul Bigelow, has sponsored games, informal discussions in the Commons, water melon feeds, dancing lessons, and the pool table in Bundy.

The Dining Room Committee, under Roz Williams, has investigated problems of served meals, announcements in the dining room, and snack bar.

The Smoking Committee, headed by Gordon Bruno, deals with the smoking issue at Earlham. It keeps an eye toward student opinion as a basis for improving conditions for integrating smokers and non-smokers.

Marty Walton, Chairman of the late per room, works with her committee to set up regulations for conduct in the room.

The Communications Committee, lead by Mickey Justice, posts daily information on the bulletin boards in the dining room, and also takes charge of the radio station and public address system. It also sponsors the Wednesday night dances.

A new committee, headed by

EC Men Raid Manchester

One night recently Manchester College awoke to find "Earlham" splashed oil-paint across the new fine-arts building, (similar in design to Dennis Hall). The letters "E.C." also appeared on a girls dorm and on the steps of the administration building.

The dirty work was done the night before Homecoming by four Earlham boys in retaliation for an "M." that Manchester raiders burned on the Earlham football field earlier that same night.

The General Council, following a recommendation of the AMR, recognized that the prank "was done in a spirit of rivalry which should be fostered. But the defacing of property was destructive, and presented a disciplinary problem," according to Tom Kenworthy, chairman.

The Council decided therefore that the students involved will have to assume any damage costs that may be billed to Earlham. No disciplinary action as such

Businessmen Present Panel

The assembly for November 12th will be a program presented by a panel of presidents of various local industries. The title of the program will be "Industry and Education."

The chapel speaker for November 14th will be Paul Guinness, who will speak on "Forging Unity in a Divided World." Mr. Guinness, the father of Margaret, has until recently been associated with the world alliance of the Y.M.C.A.

He is now devoting his time to organizing a conference which will bring together religious and political leaders from all over the world. Mr. Guinness will speak about his work in connection with the conference.

Crucible Deadline For Submissions Is November 27

Crucible, the Earlham College literary magazine, has arranged its schedule for the first semester issue.

Deadline for submitting work will be Thanksgiving vacation. Articles, essays, stories, poetry, art and photographs should be turned in in finished form on or before November 27.

A box for manuscripts will be provided in Carpenter and the lobby of each dorm. Manuscripts may also be turned in to Sue Yocom, editor; art work and photographs may be submitted directly to Cynthia Clark, art editor.

Everyone in the community is welcome to submit. In the past, Crucible has been strictly a student publication; but since it

Flu Drops Damper On Campus Activities

Convalescing after a siege of the flu, these boys study to make up missed work. They along with 230 other students were hospitalized in makeshift infirmaries in Barrett Basement and Earlham Hall.

Hawaii To Be Audubon Topic

The second Audubon Screen Tour of the season will feature Mr. Fran William Hall, speaking on Hawaii. The program is to be held on Friday, Nov. 8 at 8 p.m. in Goddard.

Mr. Hall is a wildlife photographer for the Walt Disney Studios, and a pioneer in close-up photography. He has travelled widely in the pursuit of natural history and has made films in Mexico, Hawaii, the Magdalen Islands, Puerto Rico, and the U.S. He is described as having great ability as a speaker, and a good sense of humor. According to Carrolle Markle this should be an unusually good program.

Tickets may be obtained at the Book Store. Single admission for students is 50 cents. Season tickets covering the remaining four lectures are $1.50 for students.

Board Reaffirms Ruling On Games In Snack Area

The Earlham Hall Board of Managers has recently reviewed and confirmed the regulation concerning card playing in the snack bar area.

Reasons given for this decision are that a much neater area for eating can be maintained if card playing is prohibited. The Board of Trustees' request that smoking in the snack bar area be held to a minimum is another reason for eliminating card playing in this area.

The Board felt that the game room and the lounge adjacent to the snack bar area would provide ample space for card playing, according to Frank Short, president.

There are a number of card tables available that may be used by students. These will help to provide more table space if it is needed.

'Sputnik' Expert Speaks Sunday

Donald L. Crabtree, an expert on rocket research, will speak at the all-college meeting on Sunday, Nov. 10th at 11 o'clock. The title of his talk will be "The Significance of Sputnik."

Crabtree is now studying in the jet propulsion center at Purdue, where he will graduate Feb. 1st. Though an undergraduate, he is the number one ballistic expert there, and holds the American Pocket Society student award. The paper that merited this award is titled "The Designated Evaluation of One Type of Nuclear Propulsion System."

Epidemic Strikes 45% Of College

Activities at Earlham College almost came to a standstill as nearly half of the school succumbed to the flu. Over 45% of the student body have been in some way ill from the flu, Esther Baldwin, head nurse, estimated.

In all, the infirmary handled 258 cases. The boys were put in the main lounge and Day Dodger study room in Barrett basement. Girls occupied the infirmary, guest rooms, and Miss French's parlor in Earlham Hall. At the peak, beds were put in the halls.

The epidemic took its heaviest toll during the week ending last Friday, as 103 new cases were reported during this time. In the week ending Friday, October 25, 78 new cases were reported, while during the previous week, of October 18, 68 were taken ill. Up to Tuesday of this week there were only nine new flu patients. On Tuesday there were only seven in the infirmary, compared with 68 the week before.

A general cancellation of extracurricular activities resulted from Flu Virus the epidemic. The Earlham Post did not go to press last week after the greater part of the staff succumbed to the flu. Chapel and assembly programs became voluntary, and the midsemester grading period was extended from November 8 to November 15.

The dining room suffered: there were days when only about half the workers showed up, according to Roz Williams, manager. And on one night only 42 tables were set, instead of the usual sixty.

In order to provide for the epidemic one nurse was added to the staff, and 15 student volunteers were recruited.

During the epidemic an average of 75 students a day saw the nurse in the infirmary. In October, over 2000 visits were made to the infirmary.

When a student did get the flu, a letter was sent home to his parents.

Although the infirmary has flu shots, Mrs. Baldwin does not think it advisable to take the shots just after so many have had the flu.

The type of flu which has plagued the campus has not been determined.

Editorial:

THE SPIRIT OF THINGS

One of the regular topics of discussion around campus has lately been subjected to an intensive amount of brainstorming and concern. This topic, most recently brought to the fore in the Town Meeting, is the subject of the school spirit.

School spirit, in the general sense of love of Earlham and support of the college in all facets of its activity, was felt by most students to be lacking at Earlham. They felt this lack was most obviously shown at athletic contests and in extra-curricular activities.

At the last football game against Oberlin there certainly could have been many more students present. However it must be noted that the fans who were present displayed a tremendous amount of school spirit, for despite the fact that Earlham was losing the contest, every gain and good play executed by the team was enthusiastically cheered throughout the ENTIRE game. We would like to see much more of this spirit exhibited.

Nevertheless we will agree that there seems to be a definite lack of school spirit in many phases of campus life. We must remember that some apathy will manifest itself, but to combat an excessive lack of school spirit there are things which can be done and things which should not be done.

On the best paths to insuring school spirit is that of setting an example. It is many times in the hands of the upper classmen to display the spirit, for their actions certainly can have an effect on incoming students. Also the administration must be wary of applying too much restriction on what they might feel are bizarre displays of school spirit. These would include itineraries to rival colleges with the intent of making known Earlham's existence, and student "riots" which are an outlet that certainly need not be harmful. On the other hand we want to make it clear that students should not engage in destructive activities in the name of the school spirit and expect toleration from the administration or community as a whole.

School spirit is an intangible sort of thing, and therefore there are several courses of action which at first might seem advisable to follow; but in the final analysis would be found unsuitable. For example, it would seem fruitless to "set up a committee" to find out what was wrong with school spirit and do something about it, or to plan and require attendance at activities designed to bolster school spirit. In brief, school spirit is not something which is imposed from without, but rather something which develops from within.

To every student is offered the choice of entering into and supporting the many aspects of campus life at Earlham, or spending his college life in a dull and indifferent manner. It is our feeling that the student will find a much more pleasant and rewarding life at college if he chooses to "enter into the spirit of things."

Christian Love Asked By Laubach

"Illiteracy" in the western world was described by Dr. Frank Laubach as the appalling lack of knowledge in this country about world affairs. Dr. Laubach, world-famous missionary and educator, addressed the assembly on October 31.

He stressed the fact that Americans, as Christians, have given downtrodden peoples a new hope in this life, but have failed to help them realize their aspirations. He feels that this is why communism, promising all prosperity, causes our unequally rich country to lose prestige.

In the coffee hour after the assembly, Dr. Laubach answered questions concerning his beliefs and life work.

He discussed the method of pictorial teaching which he developed and which is now used among illiterate peoples all over the world. For each letter of the alphabet, the student learns a picture of an object which resembles the letter and begins with it. Thus the sound of a name is associated with the letter. Stories using these words are next studied, and gradually the study in reading grows more complex. This technique is also useful in teaching Americans foreign languages.

A Principle Needs Practice

The principle of "Each one teach one" permits learning to go on without adequate class facilities and teachers. 70% of the Philippines learned to read at home this way.

Questioned about communists, Laubach stated that they too are trying to save the world. We only differ in that we try to work with the love of Christ; they work from a material basis.

He qualified Christianity as being unique in its hope and infinite compassion for all, aiming not to judge but to save. Laubach felt that Christ has all power, all love, and all truth; and therefore that a person who permits Christ to enter his life will express Him through his actions.

All that is required to save the world, therefore, is to study it and understand its conditions, and to act with knowledge and understanding through love of God. If Americans were to be converted, Laubach asserted, all the world could be converted; and the way to start here is again the method of "Each one teach one." In this way each individual will be able to find his own part in helping toward world peace.

serves the entire community, the staff this year felt that work by faculty and administration should be accepted equally.

Every work submitted will receive anonymous written criticism by at least three staff members, the editor, and one staff adviser. All manuscripts will be returned with their criticisms, and the author will be welcome to discuss them further with members of the staff. Works are finally chosen for publication on the basis of their artistic validity and suitability as judged by the whole staff.

The first issue of Crucible will appear shortly after Christmas vacation.

ISAC Offers Suggestion

To the Editor:

The letter about dessertless meals which appeared in the last issue of the PPOST was discussed by the International Student Aid Committee, which sponsored the vote.

With regard to the right of Day Dodgers to vote, we wish to point out that the dining room retains the option of having dessertless meals at either lunch or dinner. For this reason we felt that Day Dodgers who buy lunch in the cafeteria should have a voice.

We recognize that minority rights have been overlooked and suggest offering a cash reimbursement to those who voted against dessertless meals.

We would like to hear alternative proposals, as well as student reaction to this suggestion.

Certificates Won By EC Debaters

Two Earlhamites won Wachtel certificates for excellence in discussion last weekend at the 16th annual Tau Kappa Midwestern Regional Conference, held at Purdue.

Mike Callom, a junior transfer student from Las Vegas, N. M., and Brenda Baumhart, freshman from Eaton, O., received the awards. Jack Harrell, a Junior, Richard Ellis and Anne Irving, both freshmen, also took part in the discussion and legislative sessions.

The discussion topic was: "What revision is needed in existing legislation governing the role of labor unions in determining conditions for employment?"

Seventy-five students came to the conference from 13 midwestern colleges and universities.

The Earlham forensics will debate Ball State at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Honor Scholarship To Be Given By Chicago University

The School of Business of the University of Chicago has established a continuing program of Honor Scholarships.

The School of Business is empowered to designate a senior who shall receive a one year full scholarship at the School of Business. The scholarship is renewable for a second year if the student's academic performance is satisfactory. The student nominated for this award must meet the admission standards of the University of Chicago.

Each institution in this program devises its own procedures and criteria for making the nomination for this award. Students are eligible for these awards regardless of the field of undergraduate specialization. Students with undergraduate majors in Humanities, Social Science, Natural Science, and Engineering have made outstanding records in the School of Business.

The Honor Scholarship Program is not intended to discourage students at the participating colleges from applying for any of the other fellowships or scholarships available at the School of Business.

The student will be asked to submit application for admission to the School at the time he is nominated for this award. An application form will be sent shortly before the nomination date.

The nomination should be sent to Harold R. Metcalf, Dean of Students of the School of Business, not later than February 1, 1958. The School of Business asks that a statement concerning the nominee and a transcript of his record accompany the nomination.

The date, to be held in 321 and 324 Carp, will be on right to work laws.

Next weekend the team will meet Ohio University. The discussion, scheduled for 3 p.m., will be held here on campus.

Earlham Soccer Squad Loses 4-2 To I. U. In Rain

Indiana University upset Matlack's Merry Men last Saturday by the convincing score of 4-2. The undefeated but once-tied Quakers were never really in the game after the first quarter, and their lack of skill with a wet ball could cost them the Midwestern Collegiate Soccer Conference title.

Once again Earlham started fast, with Mel Keiser scoring for the Quakers after 30 seconds had passed. The goal came after a scuffle in front of the Indiana goal. Within one minute Indiana came back to score with the shot by Rothmuller from the 18 yard line. Ruthmuller, who scored all four Indiana goals, put in another four minutes later, and Earlham never recovered the lead. By halftime the score was 3-1, and early in the third quarter Ruthmuller made it four by putting a pass from Horsman into the left side of the net. Late in the fourth quarter Dick Otto tallied on a penalty kick into the right side to wind up the scoring with Earlham on the short end.

The game was completely dominated by Indiana, with the ball usually in Earlham territory. When Earlham did force the game they were rarely in position to shoot for the score. In the fourth quarter Earlham did show signs of recovery, yet it was only on a penalty kick that they were able to score.

For Earlham, Newt and Dick Otto, along with Jim Bullard, played their usual good game, but they were not enough. Perhaps the Quakers will improve this Saturday when they host Purdue in their final home game.

Phil Young (No. 4) tries for extra yardage in game last Saturday with Oberlin. The game was won by Oberlin 45-0.

Quaker Harriers Lose

The Earlham Harriers dropped their final meet of the season last Thursday at Wabash, 16-43. Wabash ace Warren Hull was the individual winner, completing the 4-mile jaunt in 20:55. Wabash runners also finished in the second, third, and fourth spots.

Doug Canady was again top finisher for Earlham. Behind Canady, who finished fifth, came Roy Treadway, eighth; Wayne Vinson, ninth; Deadwood Griffith, tenth; and Dave Gettinger, twelfth.

EC MEN RAID

Willis Richardson reported that Earlham probably will not receive any charges. Members of the General Council who went to Manchester last week to discuss and investigate the situation, found the paint nearly removed.

The Executive Staff (of the administration), and the A.M.R. both reviewed the case and decided they did not have jurisdiction over it. As a result it ended up in the General Council, the general disciplinary body which is composed of representatives from the faculty, administration, and the presidents of AMR, AWS, the Day Dodgers Organization, and Senate.

Confusion in handling the case resulted because the situation was unprecedented, in the last ten years. According to President Jones, students who have painted on Earlham buildings have been expelled from the campus, but so far as is known, no one has painted on any buildings off campus before.

The meet marked the second time this season that Wabash has stopped Earlham in cross country. Three weeks ago Wabash won the Earlham Invitational here, with Hull the winner then also. At Wabash the Quakers found themselves shorthanded, as Byron Knutsen and Ray Treadway, both outstanding sophomores, were ill and unable to run. Thus the Quakers finished their 1957 cross country season with a 4 and 3 record.

SENATE REVIEWS

Miss Clark, the social director of Earlham Hall, was added to the Board this fall.

A mimeographed sheet listing opportunities, facilities, and regulations of all areas covered by the Board of Managers will be sent out to everyone in the future to keep students informed on goings-on.

Discussion was raised on the right of ISAC to ballot students for desertless meals. However, it was found that the committee had checked with Miss Collins about the matter, so Senate will post a statement of its approval of the proceedings.

Tom Kenworthy announced that the Radio Station WVOE would be off the air temporarily until apparatus being set up for testing is approved by the FCC.

Leigh Gibby reported that the Library Committee had discussed the possibility of keeping the library open later at night, and had decided against it due to the nature of the present library. However, a letter will be forwarded to the Personnel Committee, suggesting that adequate study rooms be provided for all times in the evening.

Absent from this meeting were Hogie Hanson, Gladys Neal, Paul Reid, and Jim Snyder.

EC Footballers Drop Sixth Game To Oberlin, 45-0

Earlham's injury and flu-ridden Quakers lost their sixth straight game of the year Saturday to previously winless Oberlin College, 45-0. With key Quaker linemen, George Olson and John Powell, out of action, the Yeomen of Oberlin tore gaping holes in the EC forward wall, while on the offense, the Quakers were unable to break a runner loose. Oberlin punt returns were disastrous to the Earlham cause, as the Yeoman averaged close to 32 yards per return.

Oberlin scored twice in each of the first two periods to take a 26-0 halftime lead and then coasted through the second half, as coach Lysle Butler substituted freely. Earlham's only scoring opportunity came on the next to last play of the first half, when Phil Young hit Herb Sawyer with a short pass and Sawyer carried the ball to the eight yard line. However, time ran out before the Quakers were able to push the score across.

Sawyer played his usual fine game for the Quakers, although he failed to get the blocking necessary to spring him loose. Steve Bowles played his best game of the year, catching three passes good for 36 yards.

Next week, the Quakers play the Indiana Central Greyhounds, who Saturday almost upset Valparaiso University. The game next week will be played in Central's new stadium in Indianapolis.
